Hi Wendy – This is a hard one to answer because it's hard to define 'a case like this.' We do issue 8(a)(3) complaints all the time having to do with the issue of retaliation, but this complaint is definitely larger in scope and against a higher-profile respondent than others in recent years.

Thanks Nancy --- A labor historian told me that the NLRB used to bring suits like this – but hasn't done so for" decades"
When was the last time the Board brought a case like this (and a case like this ag a high profile employer)
