I am pleased to report that I have spoken with Samuel Stanley, President of Stony Brook University-State University of New York, and he has agreed to serve as a member of the National Security Higher Education Advisory Board. This is fortuitous, since he has just been appointed to the National Science Advisory Board for Bio Security. He had a security clearance previously when he was at Washington University, and he is in the midst of an additional security clearance review in conjunction with his new appointment. He believes the FBI may be doing that review, but I'm sure you can check on that.

I indicated to him that you and perhaps your SAC would be calling to schedule a visit with him soon to touch base and to make sure that the security clearance was moving along. He and I would both like to have him attend the October meeting of the NSHEAB, so that should be our goal. I also indicated that he would receive a letter in due course from Director Mueller formally appointing him.

I received a letter to day from Nancy Zimpher, Chancellor of SUNY, resigning from the NSHEAB, effective immediately--even before she attended a single meeting. I had my doubts about her from the beginning. If we still wish to have someone from SUNY, a much better choice would be Dr. Samuel Stanley, President of Stony Brook University of SUNY. He has both a personal and scientific interest in our work and would be more engaged. I'll send along a copy of her letter to you.

I am sorry to have to step down from the Board, as I recognize and appreciate the very

ISU president Gregory Geoffroy to step down

Iowa State University President Gregory Geoffroy today announced his intention to leave his post no later than July 31, 2012. He will remain president of Iowa State until a successor is named. Geoffroy, who is approaching his 10th anniversary as ISU's top administrator, informed the Iowa Board of Regents of his plans in executive session earlier this week. Geoffroy, 64, cited the accomplishment of key goals and a desire to spend more time with his family as primary factors in his decision.

"It's been such a pleasure to be associated with so many talented and dedicated individuals within and outside the university. The Iowa State family is, and will always be, a special part of my life," Geoffroy wrote in a memo distributed to faculty and staff this morning. "But my life also includes four children and four grandchildren spread across the country. Kathy and I want to spend much more time with them, and that's not possible in my current role."

Board of Regents President David Miles indicated the search for Geoffroy's successor will be discussed at the board's April 28 meeting, scheduled to be held at Iowa State.

"Both professionally and personally, it's been a real pleasure to work with Dr. Geoffroy," Miles said. "He is one of the truly outstanding university presidents in the nation. He will leave an impressive legacy at Iowa State."

Geoffroy became the 14th president of Iowa State University on July 1, 2001, and was officially installed to the post in October of that year. Previously, Geoffroy served as senior vice president for academic affairs and provost at the University of Maryland, College Park. He also served as interim president at Maryland in 1998. Prior to this, Geoffroy served in several positions at Pennsylvania State University, University Park, from 1974 to 1989, including dean of the Eberly College of Science and professor and chair of chemistry.

At Iowa State, President Geoffroy led the development of two ambitious, five-year strategic plans, with the vision of Iowa State being the best at advancing its land-grant ideals and in putting science and technology to work. Specifically, Geoffroy has focused on recruiting and retaining top faculty, staff and students; private fundraising to support faculty positions and student scholarships; and sustaining and advancing Iowa's position in the growing bioeconomy.

Under Geoffroy's leadership, Iowa State has set records in fund raising, enrollment and external funding. Campaign Iowa State, the university's largest fund raising effort to date, surpassed its $800 million goal. The university hit a record $388.2 million in grants, contracts, gifts and cooperative agreements during FY10, an increase of $83 million and 27 percent over the previous year's record. Student enrollment soared to a record 28,682 students in fall 2010, which also ushered in the most diverse student body in Iowa State history. Geoffroy's goal of doubling the number of endowed faculty positions at Iowa State, from 75 to 150, also was met in 2010. And the university (in 2007) established the Bioeconomy Institute to support and advance work in biorenewable technologies.

The past decade also brought significant improvements to the campus infrastructure. More than 20 major building projects have been completed - from new academic buildings and residence halls, to renovation and expansion of other facilities.

"This is a good time to initiate this change," Geoffroy said of his decision. "I'm confident that Iowa State will continue to prosper with outstanding faculty and staff, a strong leadership team, passionate alumni and donors, and bright, energetic students."

will arrive Friday, April 1st.

Dear President Rawlings:

On behalf of the FBI, it is a pleasure to welcome you to the National Security Higher Education Advisory Board (NSHEAB). We are confident you will find, as we have, that your NSHEAB membership will generate meaningful discussion on a broad range of issues of importance to both the United States Intelligence Community and higher education.

Included in these meetings are discussions regarding technology and intellectual property export issues, cyber security, espionage, terrorism, foreign students and international visitors, as well as many other matters of mutual interest. In addition, I have attached the NSHEAB's mission statement for your review in order to provide a more complete description of the NSHEAB's goals.

Because of the nature of this advisory board, it is necessary for all board members to hold security clearances at the "Secret" level. The FBI will facilitate the processing of these security clearances to allow for your participation in classified discussions. The FBI field office that covers your area is the Washington Field Division. Special Agent in Charge Debra Evans Smith, telephone number [REDACTED] will be personally contacting you to welcome you to the board and initiate the clearance process. If you already hold a clearance, we should be able to have those clearances passed to the FBI.

President Michael A. McRobbie
Office of the President
Indiana University
Bryan Hall, Room 200
107 South Indiana Avenue
Bloomington, IN 47405-7000

Dear President McRobbie:

On behalf of the FBI, it is a pleasure to welcome you to the National Security Higher Education Advisory Board (NSHEAB). We are confident you will find, as we have, that your NSHEAB membership will generate meaningful discussion on a broad range of issues of importance to both the United States Intelligence Community and higher education.

Included in these meetings are discussions regarding technology and intellectual property export issues, cyber security, espionage, terrorism, foreign students and international visitors, as well as many other matters of mutual interest. In addition, I have attached the NSHEAB's mission statement for your review in order to provide a more complete description of the NSHEAB's goals.

Because of the nature of this advisory board, it is necessary for all board members to hold security clearances at the "Secret" level. The FBI will facilitate the processing of these security clearances to allow for your participation in classified discussions. The FBI field office that covers your area is the Indianapolis Division headed by Special Agent in Charge (SAC) Michael S. Welch, telephone number [REDACTED] SAC Welch will be personally contacting you to welcome you to the board and initiate the clearance process. If you already hold a clearance, we should be able to have those clearances passed to the FBI.

It is my pleasure to do so. President Sullivan is most welcome.

Yes, the date of the next meeting is 18 October at our headquarters in Washington, DC. The agenda has not yet been readied, but the meeting will last between 12 noon and 4 pm. The meeting after that will take place in Miami, FL from 2/15-16/2012.

We will immediately add President Sullivan to our contact list. May I please ask for her office e-mail, telephone, and mailing address?

Please contact me for assistance at any time. My direct work line is [redacted] I am presently away from the office, but will return on Tuesday.

Best regards, [redacted]

Dear Mr. [redacted]

I am writing in behalf of Teresa Sullivan, a new appointee to the National Security Higher Education Advisory Board. I understand from Graham Spanier's office that you can both confirm the date for the fall meeting (October 18) and add President Sullivan to your mailing list for information about the advisory board.

I appreciate your help. Many thanks -- [redacted]

Sincerely,
