Re: Request for Investigation – EPA Employee Use of Unapproved Applications

Dear Inspector General Elkins:

I write on behalf of Cause of Action Institute (“CoA Institute”), a nonprofit strategic oversight group committed to ensuring that government decision-making is open, honest, and fair.¹ In carrying out its mission, CoA Institute uses investigative and legal tools to educate the public about the importance of government transparency and accountability.

As part of our ongoing effort to investigate instances where government officials have used alternative methods of communication to conduct official business in contravention of agency rules and federal records management laws, we have been examining the possible alienation of federal records at the Environmental Protection Agency (“EPA”). We have twice advised the Administrator of the obligations imposed by the Federal Records Act (“FRA”) with respect to the recovery of all electronic records created or received on unauthorized mobile applications. Our most recent notice, which was addressed to Administrator Pruitt earlier this week, raises new concerns about the use of instant messaging applications and personal web-based email accounts by EPA employees on agency-furnished and taxpayer-funded mobile devices, including iPhones and iPads.²

Our concerns are based on a contractor-generated report that was orally requested by the EPA Office of Inspector General (“OIG”) during its investigation into the use of “Signal” and “WhatsApp,” but which may never have been provided to your office in full.³ This report confirms that at least sixteen other mobile applications with electronic messaging capabilities were downloaded and operating on EPA hardware, as well as at least three web-based email applications. To the extent the OIG has not already done so, we respectfully request that your office immediately investigate the use of these applications and the possible legal issues arising therefrom.

Background

Shortly after President Trump took office, the press reported that a group of career EPA employees were using an encrypted messaging application called “Signal” to discuss ways to prevent incoming political appointees from implementing the Administration's policy agenda.⁴ Concerned that EPA employees were using Signal to conceal their communications from oversight, or to bypass EPA record-keeping obligations under the Freedom of Information Act ("FOIA") and the FRA, CoA Institute notified then-Acting Administrator McCabe of her obligation as agency head to ensure that all work-related records created or received on Signal were retained or retrieved by the EPA.⁵

As a result of that notification, your office opened an investigation.⁶ Shortly thereafter, the U.S. House of Representatives Committee on Science, Space, and Technology also directed you to analyze the allegations surrounding Signal that had been reported in the press.⁷ Following Congress's lead, the National Archives and Records Administration ("NARA") opened its own inquiry into the potential violation of records management laws.⁸ The NARA inquiry apparently remains open, as the EPA has yet to file a final report with the Archivist.⁹

Over the past year, CoA Institute has pieced together troubling details concerning the use of Signal and other unauthorized communication applications at the EPA. These facts have come to light only because of our investigatory efforts, which have included three FOIA requests¹⁰ and two lawsuits, one of which is ongoing.¹¹ For example, according to records released to CoA Institute earlier this month, your office has, in fact, already completed its investigation into Signal and another encrypted messaging application, called “WhatsApp,” which was used more widely across the EPA’s workforce.¹² But one agency record reveals vital information that may never have been transmitted to the OIG.¹³ That document, which provides a summary of all applications installed on most agency-furnished devices, was generated by an EPA contractor using the agency’s “Mobile Device Management” software.¹⁴ The record indicates that at least sixteen other applications with electronic messaging capabilities were downloaded and operating on EPA hardware.¹⁵ These applications included the following:

- AIM
- BlackBerry Messenger
- Facebook Messenger
- Google Hangouts
- GroupMe
- Jabber
- KakaoTalk
- Kik
- LINE
- Skype
- Slack
- Snapchat
- Telegram
- Viber
- WeChat
- WickrMe

In addition to these electronic messaging applications, several web-based email applications also were installed by EPA employees. These applications raise the same FRA and FOIA concerns as the use of Signal and WhatsApp because they can be used by agency employees to communicate about work-related business on a personal email account. At least three such applications were downloaded to EPA devices, including AOL, Gmail, and Yahoo Mail.¹⁶

Most, and perhaps all, of the foregoing messaging and email applications were unapproved for work-related use and installed in violation of official EPA policy. Although your office reported that the EPA disabled the “Apple Store” on most agency-furnished devices last summer,¹⁷ it remains unclear whether some employees still have the ability to download applications without prior approval or supervision, or whether already-installed unauthorized applications have been deleted.

Furthermore, there are no publicly available details concerning efforts, if any, that have been undertaken to investigate the records management issues surrounding the use of these unapproved applications. In light of the foregoing, we request that you confirm the EPA's prior representation concerning the inability of agency employees to download and utilize mobile applications, as well as the efforts necessary to ensure that all record-keeping obligations have been met.

Conclusion

Given the seriousness of the proper preservation of federal records and the importance of public trust in the EPA's compliance with the FRA and the FOIA, we urge the OIG to investigate this matter and take all appropriate action.

We welcome the opportunity to discuss the issues raised in this letter. If you have any questions, please feel free to contact me by telephone at (202) 499-4232 or by e-mail at ryan.mulvey@causeofaction.org. Thank you again for your attention to this matter.

In addition to these electronic messaging applications, several web-based email applications also were installed by EPA employees. These applications raise the same FRA and FOIA concerns as the use of Signal and WhatsApp because they can be used by agency employees to communicate about work-related business on a personal email account. At least three such applications were downloaded to EPA devices, including AOL, Gmail, and Yahoo Mail.¹⁴

Most, and perhaps all, of the foregoing messaging and email applications were unapproved for work-related use and installed in violation of official EPA policy. Notification of the Obligation to Preserve or Retrieve Work-Related Electronic Messages

The FRA refers to the collection of statutes and regulations that govern the creation, management, and disposal of the records of federal agencies.¹⁶ The FRA was enacted to ensure the "[a]ccurate and complete documentation of the policies and transactions of the Federal Government" and the "[j]udicious preservation and disposal of records."¹⁷ Among other things, the FRA requires an agency head to "establish and maintain an active, continuing program for the economical and efficient management of the records of an agency,”¹⁸ and to establish “safeguards” against the removal or loss of records, including notifications to agency officials and employees that records may not be alienated or destroyed unless authorized and of “the penalties provided by law for the unlawful removal or destruction of records.”¹⁹

Under 44 U.S.C. § 3106, the FRA also requires the “head of each Federal agency”—in this case, the Administrator of the EPA—to notify the Archivist of the United States “of any actual, impending, or threatened unlawful removal, defacing, alteration, corruption, deletion, erasure, or other destruction of records in the custody of the agency[.]”²⁰ In addition to notification, the FRA imposes a non-discretionary obligation on the agency head, with the assistance of the Archivist, to “initiate action through the Attorney General for the recovery of records the head of the Federal agency knows or has reason to believe have been unlawfully removed[.]”²¹ Unlawful removal of records is defined as “selling, donating, loaning, transferring, stealing, or otherwise allowing a record to leave the custody of a Federal agency without the permission of the Archivist of the United States.”²² In any situation where an agency head does not initiate action through the Attorney General for the recovery of unlawfully removed records, the Archivist is required to request the Attorney General to initiate such action and to notify Congress of that request.²³

In this case, to the extent EPA employees communicated about work-related issues on any application capable of sending or receiving electronic messages, or if they used a personal email address for agency business, then they created federal records as defined by the FRA. Those records belong to the EPA and must be retained for preservation and disposition in accordance with NARA-approved schedules. If any such electronic messages or email records have been deleted or otherwise alienated (i.e., failed to be saved to an official EPA recordkeeping system), then you have an obligation under 44 U.S.C. § 3106, as Administrator of the EPA, to recover those records. This obligation extends to messages that are currently outside the custody of the EPA, such as those that reside on personal or third-party devices, accounts, or servers.

Once again, if the electronic messages and email records at issue have been alienated and qualify as federal records, then the FRA mandates that you (1) notify the Archivist of their alienation and (2) initiate action through the Attorney General for their recovery should any remedial recovery efforts prove unsuccessful.²⁴ As the D.C. Circuit Court of Appeals has held, this obligation to initiate action through the Attorney General for the recovery of unlawfully removed records is a mandatory obligation, not subject to agency discretion.²⁵ Any attempt to evade that obligation by claiming that the EPA lacks the legal authority to recover the records at issue cannot be countenanced.

Conclusion

We look forward to the EPA inquiring as to the status of the electronic messages and email records created or received by agency employees on unapproved communication applications. We also appreciate your commitment to complying with the statutory obligation to recover all federal records that remain outside EPA custody. We respectfully request that the EPA provide public notice of the results of its efforts and to certify the agency's compliance with the law, as detailed above.
